

Stories of HOPE

Snapshots of the Ministry of The HOPE from Around the World - November 2014

Philippines - Jesus in the Night Club

There's a song that goes, "What would Jesus say, what would Jesus do? Where would Jesus go, we've got to go there, too." That's what Paul (lower right corner of the adjacent photo) did in the Philippines. Meeting regularly with a group of young people in a nightclub he showed segments of The HOPE and then opened his tattered Bible (shown next to Paul) to share the Word. During that time several of them prayed to receive Christ as their Savior. Thanks Paul, for modeling Jesus for us!

Myanmar - Teaching English to Share the Gospel

Around the world missionaries are teaching English as a bridge to the Gospel. Many are using The HOPE English as a Second Language Software Curriculum (left). In Myanmar Pastor Rocky and his wife are excited at the response to The HOPE ESL. Recently they told us about a Buddhist woman who attended their class and subsequently gave her life to Christ.

Lebanon - Flying Under the Radar, Discipling the Next Generation of Leaders

Sandwiched between Syria and Israel, Lebanon is strategically located in the landscape of the Middle East. We recently got word that The HOPE is being used as a 12 part study with teens in Lebanon! Due to the sensitive nature of those involved we were not told much more than this. But the leader did ask us to pray for the teens going through the study - that they might gain a greater understanding of the Bible and the Gospel.

Kenya - With a Little Help from Friends

At the suggestion of a Global Media Outreach online missionary, a university student in Kenya named Chrispin watched The HOPE online. A few days ago Chrispin emailed us to say that he and his friends were now sharing The HOPE with as many people as possible. Judging by this photo from one of his "Movie Nights," Chrispin is reaching a lot of people!

Houston - Bread for the Body and Soul

Through their Faith Center, Houston's First Baptist Church is meeting the physical and spiritual needs of about 400 families/1400 individuals a month. Many food and clothing baskets include a copy of The HOPE in English or Spanish!
